

Location Advisory Consultant

Location Decisions is an independent consulting firm in the field of corporate location and site selection. We assist companies from all industries to identify the best locations and sites for new corporate facilities around the world. Clients engage us to provide an objective and comprehensive assessment of location alternatives for their international expansion projects.

We help companies select locations and sites for almost all types of facilities, including manufacturing and assembly plants, corporate headquarters, shared service centers, customer service centers, R&D centers, BPO delivery centers, data centers and distribution facilities.

Based in Berlin, Germany, we are one of the few specialized location advisory firms in Europe.

We are looking for a consultant to join our team and play a key role in client projects. In this position, you will:

- Conduct research on locations that we are evaluating for our clients.
- Gather reliable data on location factors such as workforce, infrastructure, utilities, real estate, regulations, costs and government incentives.
- Assess locations and sites using a range of quantitative and qualitative factors.
- Evaluate locations using our quantitative decision-making tools.
- Organize and participate in visits to potential locations and sites.
- Prepare reports and presentations for our clients' management.
- Monitor global location trends to enhance our ability to advise our clients.
- Contribute to articles, studies, presentations and other thought leadership activities.
- Interact directly with clients as well as stakeholders such as investment promotion agencies and property owners.

You should have the following background, skills and experience:

- Strong research and data gathering skills including the ability to identify reliable data sources for highly specialized information.
- The ability to validate and complement online research through primary research, including telephone interviews with business representatives and other sources in different countries.
- Solid reporting and writing skills, including the ability to present complex analyses and results succinctly and graphically.
- Experience using Excel for evaluating data and PowerPoint for producing reports.
- Written and spoken fluency in English and at least one other language.
- International orientation and the ability to work effectively with individuals from diverse cultures.
- A bachelor's degree in economic geography, business administration, operations management, economics or international relations. Candidates with degrees in other fields will also be considered depending on their work experience.
- At least two years of work experience in location advisory, economic development, investment promotion, strategy consulting, corporate real estate, supply chain management, manufacturing planning, economic analysis or related fields.
